

Black Warrior Lures

Channel Catfish Float Slip Rig

Ask yourself, "What is the bare minimum of weight needed to make the float slowly sit straight up?" The biggest mistake channel cat anglers make is using too much weight and too of heavy gear.

The Black Warrior Lures floats are a light, sensitive floats, not meant to be used with heavy gear. If you use too heavy of gear, you'll lose the sensitivity because the extra weight means inertial forces kick in. In other words it becomes harder to detect bites because it take more energy to make the float move.

Good times, tight lines

Damon

P.S., Check out this video:

How to set the Cocking Weight

<http://youtu.be/3wB2cm0hUpc>